INTRODUCTION

Founder's Profile – Mr. Samson Sekgolea

Samson Sekgolea is the dynamic founder and driving force behind Timekeeper, a purpose-driven business built on principles of professionalism, reliability, and long-term impact. With over a decade of entrepreneurial experience, Mr. Sekgolea's journey is a testament to resilience, innovation, and a deep commitment to empowering others through enterprise.

His story began in 2008, not in a boardroom, but behind the wheel, as a dedicated shuttle driver serving corporate executives. It was during these early years that he developed a first-hand understanding of customer service, time discipline, and the inner workings of corporate environments.

Mr. Samson Sekgolea

In 2014, his entrepreneurial evolution took a significant leap when he was accepted into the Shanduka Black Umbrellas Business Incubation Programme, one of South Africa's most respected platforms for emerging black-owned businesses. Over the course of three years, he sharpened his business skills, restructured his operations, and positioned his enterprise for scalable success. His exceptional performance earned him two of the programme's highest accolades: Shanduka Entrepreneur of the Year and National Brand Ambassador.

Mr. Sekgolea went on to enhance his business acumen at the Gordon Institute of Business Science (GIBS), where he completed the Transient Supplier Development Programme. The curriculum exposed him to high-level insights in areas such as Strategic Business Management, Employee Relations, Access to Markets, Sales and Marketing, and corporate governance, solidifying his capabilities as a well-rounded and visionary business leader.

Founder's Quote:

"I started with a steering wheel and a vision. Time taught me that success doesn't come from shortcuts, it comes from showing up, staying ready, and building with purpose." – Samson Sekgolea
